S WORK AT LAVAVA ENDED

Captain Sigsbee and the Divers Again Examined, Stenographer's Notes Verified, and the Manganese Sulfate for Key West—Du Bois's Statement that No Mines Exist Regarded as Important, if True—Outline of Action

Washington, Feb. 26.—In the absence of news from Hayava on any subject other than the disposition of the dead bodies, the official mind turned to an analysis of the Spanish statements made with respect to the cause of official sanction, respecting the total absence of submarine mines from Lavava harbor, and it was recorded by the navy department as indicating the mere theory of an external cause, and rice it letters put an end to the exploding boiler theory as an internal cause of the disaster.

Nothing was heard today from the court of inquiry, and the department is still ignorant of its plans. In fact the one remaining fact from Hayava to the navy department during the day was contained in the following dispatch from Captain Stiles:

DISPOSITION OF BODIES.

"Hayava, Feb. 26.—Have succeeded in making arrangements by which bodies may be sent to Key West in hermetically sealed zinc cases. Refer to Forsyth for burial in Key West. Probable that bodies affected cannot be recognized. Probable that bodies will not remain intact. Condition of bodies will determine immediate action. Jenkins and Metcalf may be recognized. No uniform can secure health permit Key West to land the bodies there. Divers can get down after bodies this morning. Much debris will clear away. Wathnwright placed in charge of wrecking matter."—Sigsbee."

The following reply was sent:

"Washington, Feb. 26.

"Sigsbee, Hayava:—Referring to your telegram of this date. Send bodies that may hereafter be received to Key West for burial. Send to Buchan, Long."

To Key West a despatch was forwarded as follows:

"Sigsbee, Hayava:—Signs ordered to send bodies that have hereafter been recovered to Key West for temporary burial. Will arrive in hermatically sealed zinc cases. Make necessary arrangements. Bodies will remain intact."—Long."

It is believed at the department that there are probably in the neighborhood of 60 bodies remaining to be discovered and identified from the wreck.

TERROR SENT TO NEW YORK.

The double-turreted monitor Terror started for New York this evening, having passed under the bridge at Hampton Roads today, and the Brooklyn, which arrived at St. Luet, probably to coal on her way to a Guiarai, distant 500 miles, this was the only naval movement of note.

There were two pieces of alarming stories as to the movements of ordnance from the Washington navy yard to New York for the arming of the auxiliary of the new navy. It is, as at the department, an entire secret that these guns have been shipped today, but that a few for the Chicago, probably 14 five-inch rapid-firing guns will be expected Monday on Tuesday. With these guns in place, the Chicago would be pretty well modernized, and for the immediate relinquishment of control of Cuba.

"No member of the government expects Spain to accede to these demands; but should she reject them, the Atlantic fleet will sail for Lavava and blockade Cuban ports while war is being declared."

"Should Spain do so, the date in the meeting of the nation will gather at Key West, and she will be notified that a satisfactory reply must be made within 48 hours."

"The president and his cabinet are almost a unit upon all phases of the Malve disaster. They have the unusual of state of Consul General Lee that the disaster was not the result of an accident, and they have information from Captain Sigsbee, which is, as far as it goes, convincing as corroborating Lee."

"The policy decided upon is to wait the full report of the court of inquiry, and then make a written and remunerative demand of Spain for punishment of the guilty, for payment of a large indemnity, and for the immediate relinquishment of control of Cuba."

The anomalous communications recently sent to Judge Lantz, the county commissioners, district attorney and sheriff purporting to be from a juror, have created great indignation among the jurors. Mr. Wiley M. Maw was not charged with having been induced by the court officials, and he is naturally indignant over the circulation of such reports.

At the Loretto Academy last evening a very enjoyable entertainment was given. The dialogue "Keeping House" was rendered by the academy orchestra girls, selections and showed a gratifying success. The play, "A Precious Picture," given by six young people, elicited much a applause. The programme closed with a tableau and song, "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground."

The county commissioners were waited upon yesterday afternoon by a delegation of citizens, district attorney and sheriff purporting to be from a juror, have created great indignation among the jurors.

But there never was a truer saying than "Love Laughs at Locks," etc. Pearl Day, yearned for her hero and George Smith sighed for his lost child wife. A correspondence was kept up which resulted in the young girl deserting her Denver home and flying to the arms of her lover. She reached the city Sunday afternoon and was reunited with the idol of her heart.

The young couple secured quarters on Florida street and seemed that their dream of bliss had at last been realized, but yesterday the mother came down from Denver and her appearance in the city had an exceedingly disquieting effect on the nerves of the two young people.

All day yesterday the mother searched for her runaway daughter and last night the assistance of the police was implored. Captain Henry quickly located the runaway girl but Smith was not with her. She was returned to her mother who will take her back to Denver this morning.

Smith was found later last evening but a strong testimony of the esteem in which the attorney was held while living by the people of Colorado Springs.

Adams and Salvation.

Denver, Feb. 22.—General Booth, commanding-in-chief of the Salvation Army, arrived in town yesterday. Booth, Tucker, of the American branch of the army addressed an audience at Coliseum hall this afternoon and tonight. On both occasions the building was crowded to its utmost capacity, the doors being closed soon after the hour for speaking to begin and hundreds being turned away.

Beautiful and exceedingly impressive were the funerals ceremonies on the remains of the late J. K. Gould yesterday afternoon. Rarely has a funeral of such proportions been seen in this city. There was never a more beautiful scene. The tributes paid to the memory of the dead man was a fitting testimony of the esteem in which the attorney was held while living by the people of Colorado Springs.

The fourth annual hand ball tournament last evening was one of the most delightful entertainments ever given by that popular order.

The dance programs included 24 numbers, and seldom has Durkee Hall presented a more beautiful scene than last evening. Fancy costumes of all descriptions, unique, novel and bizarre, made a picture of bewilderment and beauty. Many of the costumes worn were exceedingly handsome, while others were absurdly grotesque.

The dance continued until an early hour this morning when the visitors departed, voting the "Juniors" perfect princesses of entertainers.

Golf.

One of the most successful golf tournaments ever held in the city and the first given by the Town and Gown Golf club, occurred yesterday on the north end links near the Athletic park. It was a handicap tournament and numbered among its players many of the best golfers of the city.

The prize for the best net or handicap scores was won by Mr. O. C. Townsend with an actual score of 117, less his handicap of nine, which made his net score 108. Mr. Townsend and Dr. Walter played nine and whose marriage was annulled by the district court, is still true to her first love.

The story of Miss Day's dome site facilities are well known to the majority of the people of this city. It will be remembered that George Smith, a black driver, charmedly married the young girl, and she gave him money also, and together the youthful couple returned to Miss Cora Day, the sister of the bride, for her blessing. It afterward developed that Miss Cora Day was not the star of the girl, as had been supposed at all along, but was her mother. The secret of the child's life had been religiously guarded, and was only divulged when the mother was forced into such a position by order to reclaim her daughter.

IN CASE OF WAR.

The disaster to the Maine, of necessity has caused considerable investigation bearing directly upon our military strength.

The New York Sun recently gave some interesting figures, bearing upon the number of troops which this country could place in the field. From these figures one finds that the present organized military force of the United States aggregates 1,562 officers and men. Should emergency however, make it necessary, over 10,000 men could be relied upon within a thirty-day notification. The following table shows the state and territorial complement in case of active hostilities.

Alabama	16,000
Arkansas	25,000
California	210,000
Colorado	8,000

EVERY LITTLE COUNTS.

Many journals in the east and abroad have awakened to the cold, hard fact that something must be done to check the wild rush of the ignorant to the Klondike. Surely a fix posey now but one sees some editorial comment which adjourns adjourns its efforts to make people think of the building longer of the Alaskan gold fever. One of the best illustrations used, by many papers, is a world picture contrast between the state of Colorado and the barren north. As she is today a leader, so do news papers. The mentor of Colorado as a great gold producer caused writers to collect data regarding the various camps in this state and how the eastern newspapers are exaggerating production and gold in each camp, in which own camp of Cripple Creek is receiving long-hailed credit, and a publicity which edifies these comparisons will be of the greatest benefit to Colorado and Cripple Creek, for the state and the camp can stand the greatest amount of expert scrutiny, so far as mineral wealth is concerned.

The actual production records are the proven unlimited mineral wealth will give the eastern journals a handle to their arguments, the strength of which they never dreamt of.

PREPARED FOR EMERGENCIES.

During the past week the progress of events connected with the appalling loss of the Maine, except in the columns of sensational journals, has not been rapid. Each day has brought forth numerous wild rumors and the following morning has as regularly seen the publication of explicit details. There is absolutely no more known now as to the actual cause of that awful explosion, than was known on the morning following the disaster. False dispatches abound, based only on the unbridled imagination of correspondents who are paid to invent sensations and are employed because of their genius in that particular line. No one but the official divers has been near the wreck and they have been carefully watched to prevent interviews which would destroy the weight of the final report of the court of inquiry. Secretary Long asserts with every evidence of absolute truth and frankness, that the public knows all that the government knows.

It seems, however, almost beyond doubt that the government is preparing for emergencies which there is too much reason to fear may come at any time. Even before the loss of the Maine it was generally believed that a crisis was approaching. Public sentiment is now at far greater tension, and should the court of inquiry report that in their belief the explosion was entirely accidental, condition in Cuba have it been ameliorated merely because overshadowed. Intervention in some form seems an inevitable event of the near future.

A quiet, peaceful country is waiting with a sparseness calmness that is an honor to the American character, ready for unit of support of the administration when the occasion comes for the vindication of national honor.

The attitude of President McKinley has won highest praise and inspires the greatest confidence. His calmness has been perfect, his judgment faultless, his patriotism unquestioned. He has shown not the least desire to make political or personal capital out of the grave situation with which he had to deal. To a senator he declared:

"I do not propose to do anything at all to precipitate war with Spain. Up to the present, I do not think war is either necessary or inevitable. I would be in my duty, however, if I did not prepare for the future. The situation is grave, and the policy of the administration will be determined almost entirely by the course of events. There is no necessity of alarm in the people, but congress must be ready to assist the administration without making too many inquiries as to the course of current events."

Could there be a surer or wiser standard? If the necessity for a display of force should come, or should war develop, the president and the government will be found fully ready, and behind the president and the government will be the united American people.

NOT QUITE UP TO DATE.

The New York Times is a rule publishes correct news, occasionally, however, it accepts an article from a correspondent which evidently slides over an editor's desk without notice and unopposed.

A description of Colorado Springs which appeared in the New York Daily about six months ago was so inaccurate that the Times gave just as much publicity to the contradiction made by the Gazette as it had to the same which so kindly called for a dental.

The present comment is due to the publication of an article on our mineral wealth and the progress of American mining. It was without any doubt written before the gold figures for '87 had been made public. In the article he correspondent says:

"Perhaps one of the most remarkable developments in recent years has been the increase of the gold production in Colorado, which was only considered as a silver-mining state. Colorado is now very close to California as a gold producer, and its people claim that in another year they will surpass California. This increase in Colorado is due to the Cripple Creek district and to the discovery of gold mines at Leadville, to the increasing and closer working in the old mining regions of Gilpin county and Central Park, and to the number of new miners who have staked out claims with increasing depth, so that in several cases where the large values were originally in silver they are now in gold."

Colorado is not only close to California, but has passed her months ago and the chances favor the Centennial state maintaining head position, so that her sister gold producer will have a long and hard race to catch up again.

The paper is extensive and in the main interesting. It covers production and processes, and proves some arguments with figures. The two most prominent gold-producing districts that have been opened in the United States in recent years are shown to be Cripple Creek and the Rondeburg in Southern California, the latter, of course, as yet undeveloped.

We do not desire to be considerate as to locking any party complaint against the article, due to an error, which the average reader would readily detect and correct. It simply shows that the best-organized papers will clip up (consciously), and that articles which may have been given over and revised for two months need some viewing and revising before being served to a well-posted public.

AN EPOCH IN HISTORY.

The news now offered daily in future years will fill pages of history. Children in the schools will study the Spanish-American crisis, the events which go up to it, the preparations which were made, the successive steps on each side and the final outcome. The telegraphic dispatches each day now are of absorbing interest and of the utmost historic import. A morning paper is not a luxury, but an absolute necessity. It offers all the news, in full, giving the latest official reports from Washington, Havana and Madrid, with authoritative details of mischievous and misleading rumors, narrates each event as it occurs and reflects the opinion expressed throughout the world. Those who have never taken a daily paper in their lives before, demand it now, while students in college and high school who desire a knowledge of the most exciting pages of American history as it is actually lived can get it from current papers.

PRESERVED BY A DEAD HAND.

Antiquity had its own strange ways of handing down its wealth —ways so strange that we recover our legacies only by robbing its tombs. Prof. J. Irving Mainatt tells a strange tale in the Atlantic for March.

The sepulchres of Mycenae have at last told us the actual life-story of Homer's idealized Achaeans, while the tombs of Egypt are found to be sacred and secular, the archives of uncouth generations. It is to their funeral etiquette we owe the recovery of Bacchylides and of many another precious scroll. The old Egyptian thought to while away eternity with his favorite authors; and so took with him to the long home not only his Book of the Dead, but a stock of light reading—tales, love stories, and the like.

Such a "bursting forth of genius from the dust," was looked for when the buried cities of Pompeii came to light, and Worswör uttered this prophetic note:

"O ye who patiently explore
The wreck of Herod's mean lore,
What rapture! Could ye seize
Some fragment, or unroll
One precious tender-hearted scroll
Or Pure Simony?"

If "haughty Time" has failed as yet to grant the letter of the poet's wish, the essence of it is taking shape to accomplish it. Instead of a single scroll of the elder Kelan, the younger is now restored to us in a full secret of his sweetest songs. Some eighteen centuries ago there died at Luxor a man who loved Bacchylides so well that the poet must needs bear him company beyond the bourne.

That the dead man thumbed the precious volume in the tomb we cannot say, but it was in safe-keeping. Meantime, every copy above-ground would seem to have perished within the four centuries following. At least, for day's we can get of him beyond the hundred-odd lines that had lodged here and there as other ancients quoted them to point a moral or adorn a tale, Bacchylides had been lost to the world for fourteen hundred years, and the tomb at Luxor gave up its treasures a year ago.

The superintendent of the state banking department of New York has issued a statement showing the condition of the savings banks of the state. From this one sees that the total resources of these institutions have increased $5,657,612 during the year. One year ago their total surplus was $8,653,357, and it is now $2,722,914 more than that amount. The amount of money on deposit in the institutions has been increased by $1,565,000 during the year, and the number of depositors has increased from 1,755,565 to 1,856,500 during that period, a net increase of 101,000. The condition of the savings banks is fully shown by the following totals: Total resources, $50,751,210; amount in deposits, $50,651,000; other liabilities, $30,000; surplus, $102,351,62; number of accounts opened and reopened during 1887, 31,000; number of accounts closed, 2,260; total number of depositors, 2,461,357; total number of accounts deposited, 2,500,000; amount deposited, not including interest credited, $217,55,659; amount withdrawn, $93,500,200; amount of interest credited and paid, $26,551,792; amount of salaries paid, $1,629,203; other expenses, $54,376.

The completion of the post-office bill is still unexpired to the house, both the naval and post-office awaiting confirmation of developments before they can be completed. The naval bill is practically complete, except for the provisions for dry docks and new ships, on both sides. The post-office bill is in a similar condition of completion, except for the action of the committee on appropriations to control the action of the committee on commerce. The naval bill is to be introduced by the House before going to the Senate, and the post-office bill is to be introduced by the Senate before going to the House. The naval bill is to be introduced by the House before going to the Senate, and the post-office bill is to be introduced by the Senate before going to the House.

The completion of the post-office bill depends upon the action of the House upon the Gold Hill bill relating to second class mail matter, which is to be acted upon by the Senate before the end of May. The leaders of both sides are looking ahead, eliminating both the clauses as probabilities of possibility of delay, agree that the appropriate bills should be passed and that Congress should be ready to adjourn early in May. If such a course is necessary, it would be necessary for Congress to let both in the formulation of the bill, and one recommended by the secretary of the navy and one to replace the Maine, and that in just one of the many dry docks to be mentioned will be authorized. In case the Maine disaster should prove to have been caused by accident it is probable that no naval bill for battleships will be made in the new bill.

Financial Review.

New York, Feb. 25.—Bradstreet's Financial Review tomorrow will say:

Under the influence of the Maine disaster the stock market was quieted at the end of last week. Liquidation continued on Monday, the ho ho day on the succeeding days creating a desire to central speculative and financial centers. On Wednesday, in the face of heavy buying in London, the market showed increased volume and liquidation tendencies and continued this course on Thursday, breaking with some violence. The hardening of interest under the withdrawal of money for use in business at the interior and the consequent reduction of the exchange and time rates added to the unsettled condition of the market in London, among the chief contributing factors. London was again a large buyer at the break, its total purchase for two days being estimated at over 100,000 shares, though this was considered to be mainly speculative and likely to result in selling on the rally which foreign operators believed would ensue. Some large interests were purchasers of the speculative, such activity being prominent in the Vanderbilt, Dodge, in Peary's, the American Rock Island and in the Pacific and Kansas and Texas.

The bear party were very active in the progress of the decline and were rewarded by the forcing out of a large amount of long stocks through the exhaustion of margins. Throughout the week the transaction stocks and sugar were especially unstable and ready to yield, indicating both the nature of the trading was by small traders and large operators, who were evidently not able to hold their positions. The market had attracted considerable work buying. Rumors of all kinds regarding illegal discoveries about the loss of the Maine and the probable effect on our relations with Spain had free circulation and the market was too demoralized on Thursday to take notice of favorable circumstances, such as, the drop in exchange rates in respect to the advance in money here. The demand for gold was so great that any future fall in interest here would have the effect of attracting gold from the other side of the Atlantic.

Wheat.

Wheat continued its progress upward until 106½ was reached at Montreal, but declined 30 later, at there were fears that Spain would soon stop British vessels from taking wheat across the water. After holding based on foreign purchases, deserts little notice, but the price took occasion to shake off weak followers, and the opportunity for realization was lost. There is no abating of foreign demand. Atlantic exports were 1,968,841 bushels, down (included) for the week, against 1,257,541 last year, and 1,357,356 against 1,364,411 last year, and in view of recent excitement these figures are more important than the aggregate for four weeks, 6,180,912 bushels, again in 1,558,45 last year, from Atlantic ports and 1,655,28, against 1,601,29 from Pacific ports. Corn exports for the week were 115 per cent less than last year, but the cash price declined, but slightly. The spot price of cotton was not affected.

Textile Manufacture.

It is not the season for much improvement in the textile industry, but the cotton branch has gained by the closing of the strike in one Fall River mill and by the addition of so no works at the south.

The woolen manufacturer needs many cancellations, especially in goods sold early without definite price, but is doing more than ever in this season though new business in the higher grades of worsteds and wools is not particularly encouraging. Sales of wool are slow, with weakness in clothing, amounting to about 2 cents decline from the highest point, indicating that mills have a present abundant stocks but some are selling forward in order to take supplies of other qualities. In goods of medium and low grades the demand continues heavy. The silk manufacturer seems to be remaining in the lead for the last six months, having imported raw material far in excess of consumption in our previous year and at a ratio 120 per cent above the imports in the last census year.

Metal.

The iron manufacturing has more demand for products, slightly better since for heavier pig, which has advanced to $100 per ton. Pittsburgh, with gray forged steel, had local coal a long at Chicago in spite of some southern weakness and eastern anthracite coal unchanged, though quotations are a shade lower. No finished products have changed in price, and all are strong in demand, excepting bar, while a combination has failed to advance. Some large contracts are reported, especially in car and bridge building, ship and structural work, and the demand for sheets is heavy. Minor metals change but little, the weakest in a shade to 5 cents with large receipts. Railroads for the week have been 235 in the United States against 236 last year and 30 in Canada against 50 last year.

BRADSTREET'S.

Reports for the Week in Distribution.
The Trade Are Among the Best of the Year.

New York, Feb. 25.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

While business of a speculative nature has been quick to reflect the increasing strain in political affairs, in reduced values and withdrawals or curtailment of activity in some lines, there is little to indicate that the volume of distributive trade has been reduced, and reports to Bradstreet's this week, so far as the last month goes, the best received this year. With few important exceptions, the price situation is one of strength, while the enlarged demand for coarse grains is taken to reflect the turning of attention from high priced cereals to those of a lower seed character. At the east last week's spurt in the dry goods trade at Boston does not seem to have held, but at New York there is considerable more doing in the jobbing trade. The cotton situation is one of firmness, reflecting alike the curtailment of production growing out of labor troubles and the firmness of raw cotton induced by a good export demand.

Wool is firm, but demand has slackened and there is less doing in manufactured goods. The best report as to the distribution trade made so far this year was from the central west. Spring trade there is reported earlier than usual.

Excuses All Records.

Kansas City, perhaps the most important market for agricultural implements in the country, reports the demand exceeding all records and sales limited only by the ability to deliver orders. The demand for iron and steel at the west still continues large and prices are firm. A feature of the Chicago trade has been the placing of an order for 5,000 tons each year for a railroad line Alaska. The south seems to have shared in the improvement to a notable extent. The word Alondike accurately pictures the situation on the Pacific coast. All eyes appear to be fixed on the outfitting trade and the transportation of men and supplies to the north.

Exports of wheat, including flour, from this country and Canada during the past week (five days) aggregate 3,722,489 bushels, against 2,327,741 bushels last week.

Corn exports amount to 3,692,709 bushels, against 5,055,753 bushels last week, 4,74,453 in this week a year ago, 3,125,318 in 1896 and 457,000 bushels in 1895.

A very large drop in the number of business failures is indicated by reports to Bradstreet's this week, the total num-
